India produces large numbers of engineers and doctors—even when job opportunities are limited—but not enough Chartered Accountants, despite rapidly rising demand. Currently, India has only around 1.2 lakh full-time CAs serving nearly 98 lakh business firms and over 8.2 crore taxpayers. The demand for CA professionals has increased by 44%, driven by the digital economy, GST regime, and the industrial revolution under the Make in India initiative. However, efforts to match this ever-growing demand remain insufficient, said Raghav Bhargava, Director, Taxmann.
